

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to an apparatus for CRRT therapy of the type performable using a haemofiltration
5 machine, having connecting means from and to respective blood vessels of a patient, blood processing means including a pump, means for adding drugs or other therapeutic substances, means for feeding refill liquid into the blood, and blood filtration means, cascade-
10 connected to one another by relative conduits; the apparatus also having an oxygenating device. (Figure 1)